Examiner's Comment Concerning the Drawings

The originally filed drawings had been merely sufficient for examinations proceedings. However, some of the drawings are not clearly legible. Thus, these drawings are not of adequate quality for purposes of reproduction or printing/publication. A better quality of drawings should be submitted in response to this office action.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-22 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

None of the prior art of record taken singularly or in combination reasonably teaches or suggests the combined functional limitations of integrated web hosting and content distribution system, the system affording(i.e., maintaining) a predetermined performance level of service to an individual requesting client; the system comprising a web hosting server for hosting a web site, at least one CDN (content distribution network); a redirection means for receiving DNS requests communicated from client devices (i.e., access devices) via a local DNS; and a monitoring means for monitoring operational performance statistics/parameters of the web hosting server and the at least one content distribution network; the redirection means, the monitoring means and the at least one of the content distribution networks being under operational control of a primary service provider of the individual client making a DNS request via the local DNS; the redirection means receiving signals communicated from the monitoring means, and in response to the communicated signals, which are representations of the monitored operational performance parameters, the redirecting means of the primary service provider returning a record to the local DNS indicating whether or not the web hosting server can satisfy the predetermined performance level of service requirement for each DNS request received from the local DNS, and further in combination with the functional limitations of the redirection means transmitting/returning to the local DNS a record including an IP address of the web hosting server for each DNS request received from the local DNS when a performance value is below the predetermined performance level of service; and when the performance value is at least equal to the predetermined operational performance level threshold, the redirection means returning to the local DNS a different record instructing the local DNS to make a subsequent DNS request to a DNS of the at least one content distribution network for each DNS request received from the local DNS as recited in the system claim 1 and corresponding process claim 11.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
